INSPIRED BY: The Science of Craft Beer

Perlick is known for impressive innovations in beer dispensing, and those same innovations have crossed over into our collection of Signature Series Beer Dispensers.

We're excited to announce that all Signature Series Beer Dispensers will be now outfitted with the revolutionary new Forward-Seated Flow Control Faucet. Exclusive to Perlick, this new faucet puts you in control of the pour of your beer. Certain craft beers require a slower pour to create a proper head, which can be accomplished with a simple lever adjustment.

Slow the pour by adjusting the flow control lever downwards. Slowing the pour will help eliminate excessive foaming when pouring, particularly into frosted glasses, and aide in the proper serving of hard-to-pour craft beers.

Speed up the pour for standard macro brands or any easy-to-pour microbrews.

DOOR STYLES

Perlick doors and drawers are manufactured to readily accept a fully-integrated wood panel, which means you can seamlessly blend any Perlick units into your new or existing cabinetry. Wood panels are built to Perlick specifications by your cabinet-maker, which means you are in full control of the wood, design and finish of your doors and drawers.

Perlick is the only manufacturer to feature a convertible door design, which means any of the doors can be converted to wood overlay from stainless steel. As the look of your space changes, so can the look of your Perlick. Wood overlays are simple to install, which means you can change out panels to match new cabinetry or decor. Visit perlick.com to download wood overlay templates and create your custom look today.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

VARIABLE SPEED COMPRESSOR:

Q: What is a variable speed compressor (variable capacity compressor or VCC)?

A: Located in the back of most refrigerators, the compressor is the heart of refrigeration. The standard compressor circulates cool air on a set cycle, refrigerating and preserving your food and drinks. When Perlick began specifying components for the luxury home product line, no compromises were made in the design of the refrigeration systems. Instead of a standard compressor, Perlick chose a compressor with variable speed technology - unlike all other compressors, the variable speed compressor cycles only when necessary to maintain the temperature of the products inside the cabinet. Perlick is the only company to use a variable speed compressor manufactured by the most technologically advanced manufacturer of compressors in the world.

Q: How does the variable speed compressor (variable capacity compressor or VCC) work?

A: Unlike standard compressors that run on a set cycle (either at full speed, around 3,500 RPM or completely off), the variable speed compressor operates at multiple speeds (1,500 RPM to 4,100 RPM) at different times depending on what is occurring in the cabinet. This saves energy and prolongs the life of the compressor. When placing a warm product into the cabinet, the compressor senses the change in temperature and immediately runs full speed (4,100 RPM) for rapid cool down. As the temperature of the cabinet drops, the variable speed compressor will adjust its speed and allow the rpm's to drop as well. Because the compressor can sense the temperature of the compartment, Perlick is able to maintain incredible control of the temperature inside the cabinet (freezers maintain +/- 5 degrees, refrigerators maintain +/- 3 degrees, and wine +/- 1 degree of set temperature). Thermal mass testing has proven that contents stored inside the compartment will not vary in temperature; therefore extending storage life of the contents.

Q: What are some unique features of the variable speed compressor (variable capacity compressor)?

A:
- The variable speed compressor is exclusive to Perlick - meaning that no other company uses such technologically advanced compressors for its undercounter refrigeration.
- Perlick's ability to be the only company to offer undercounter refrigeration in 48" cabinets is a result of the variable speed compressor and patent-pending convection cooling technology.
- As a result of the variable speed compressor, Perlick is the world's first company to properly store food and beverages in glass door refrigerators.
- Because Perlick's variable speed compressor does not function on a set cycle, the temperature inside the cabinet (and the temperature of the products stored) never fluctuates more than +/- two degrees of the set temperature.
- Perlick's patent-pending convection cooling helps to evenly distribute cool air produced by the variable speed compressor, thus requiring only one compressor for all Perlick (24" and 48") cabinets - this exclusive feature makes all Perlick cabinets more energy efficient than most companies' 24-inch units.
- While maintaining energy star ratings, Perlick's variable speed compressor generates 995 - 1985 BTU - substantially more than any competitor.

OUTDOOR FOOD STORAGE

Q: Are Perlick Outdoor products safe for food storage?

A: Yes, the refrigerator is rated for both food and beverage storage (only the refrigerator and freezer models).

BTU OUTPUT

Q: How does the BTU output of Perlick's undercounter refrigeration and beverage dispensing products compare to other companies' products?

A: As a result of Perlick's exclusive use of the variable speed compressor, along with patent pending convection cooling technology in every cabinet Perlick produces, Perlick is the only company in the industry with products that generate between 995 - 1985 BTU. (A BTU is a British Thermal Unit and is a measurement of a compressor's ability to cool a compartment). Perlick is also the only company in the industry to generate 995 - 1985 BTU while using the least amount of energy.

VINYL COATED FULL-EXTENSION SHELVING

Q: What are the benefits of Perlick's vinyl coated full-extension shelving?

A: Applying 100 years of experience in the commercial industry, Perlick has employed important features to its vinyl coated full-extension shelving creating the most user friendly shelving in the industry.

- Vinyl coated full-extension shelving is an industry exclusive, Perlick is the only company to offer innovative full-extension shelving that actually extends completely out of the refrigerator or wine cabinet.
- Guard rails are a part of the vinyl coated full-extension shelving, preventing products from dropping off of the back or off of the sides of the shelves.
- Each durable, commercial-grade quality, vinyl coated full-extension shelf can hold up to 75 pounds; each smooth gliding shelf holds up to seven (7) six-packs.
- The shelving is vinyl coated to prevent contents from shifting/sliding on the shelves (preventing spills in the refrigerator and no vibration in the wine cabinet).
- The convenient full-extension design allows the user to easily reach products stored in the back of the compartment for even greater convenience, the homeowner can also adjust the height of the shelves.
- Unlike other companies, Perlick's vinyl coated full-extension shelving functions with stainless steel ball bearings to maximize smoothness when the shelves are extended.

WINE STORAGE

Q: What are the benefits of Perlick's wine storage?

A:

- Perlick is the only company to use a variable speed compressor along with patent-pending convection cooling technology. As a result, when placing room temperature wine into the cabinet, the temperature inside the compartment never fluctuates more than +/- two degrees. This not only cools the wine placed into the cabinet quickly, but it also ensures that the temperatures of the other wines stored in the cabinet remain the same - this is crucial in ensuring longevity and proper storage of the wine.
- Because Perlick offers undercounter wine storage in 24" and 48" cabinets; Perlick can offer proper "multi-zone" storage for wine in up to two different climate zones. For example: With the 48" Wine Cabinet, it would be possible to store up to 80 bottles in two different zones; the first zone could store sparkling wine and champagne and the second zone could store white varietals. In addition, each zone has its own LED screen so the consumer can adjust the temperature of each zone to their specific preference.
- Perlick wine storage also features vinyl-coated full extension shelving allowing for easy access to the wine while preventing vibration or movement of the wine. Again, ensuring longevity and proper storage of the wine.
- As a result of the pure power Perlick's wine cabinets boast, 995 - 1,985 BTU, Perlick is the only company in the industry to allow for outdoor wine storage with a glass door.

COMMERCIAL-GRADE STAINLESS STEEL INTERIORS

Q: Why does Perlick use only commercial-grade stainless steel interiors in its luxury undercounter home product line?

A: Perlick, unlike any other company, uses only commercial-grade stainless steel for the interiors of its cabinets — another exclusive feature creating the most attractive and functional undercounter refrigeration in the industry.

- Perlick is the only company to offer commercial-grade stainless steel interiors as a standard feature in all of its undercounter products, so Perlick's commercial-grade stainless steel interiors are another industry exclusive.
- The commercial-grade stainless steel interiors are designed with professional use in mind; thus, creating undercounter cabinets with the same quality as those found in the most respected bars, resorts and restaurants in the world.
- Perlick's commercial-grade stainless steel interiors are not only aesthetically pleasing, but help the cabinet function as well. Stainless steel is a natural energy conductor, so it helps maintain consistent temperatures within each compartment of the cabinets while conserving energy.
- Perlick's commercial-grade stainless steel interiors feature superior craftsmanship, are extremely durable, and they are very easy to clean - keeping the cabinets looking like new!
